Lord Regent Declares Unrivaled Stability and Historic Productivity in 10th Year of Reign, Pledges Continued Prosperity and Harmony

Lord Regent Thaddeus Szuzolum Firan Omdermann announced the unparalleled stability and record-breaking production in all sectors at his tenth ascendancy celebration ceremony. It has been ten side-reel standard terran years since His Excellency reluctantly took the reigns of governance after the assassination of Governor Edi Cranx of House Valanter and the internecine warfare that broke out between the so-called 'noble' houses. The inter-house wars, the scheme of the patricidal Valanter heirs, and the unfounded rumors of a space-born xeno threat saw the darkest period in Danubis IV's history that could have plunged our world into darkness if not for His Excellency. Now, a mere standard terran decade later, all sectors report stability and minimal unsanctioned violence, as well as highest production yields in mining, ore processing, and manufacturing sectors. His Excellency unstintingly shared the credit of His success with the loyal and diligent Noble Houses, constabulary and security forces, sector command, and the Guilds and thanked them for their continued support. Ever a man of few words (He's a busy man – Ed.), he kept his speech brief, and ended with promise of continued stability, prosperity, and with higher projected yields. (cont. pg. 2)

Three New Mines Opened, Reactionary Raids from Kroot Lower than Expected

Three new mines – under Golden Dawn, Theal, and Emerald Mining – were opened last quartile and have been operating smoothly with production rising steadily and yield trajectories promising. The Kroot raids were minimal, much lower than expected and the termination squads have dealt with the sporadic raiding parties. As of now, Brevet Major Ferikka Boultoa of the 23rd Danubian Regiment, provisional commander of the termination force, has stood down the alertness level from Vermilion to Amber. She expects that the threat level will remain minimal, but the second battalion of the 23rd Danubians have been called up. 'Just better to be prepared,' she had stated when we caught up with her during her inspection of expanded section of the Wire in the reclamation zone. Her troops are determined and in high spirits she reported. She also agreed that the expansion of mines was critical and technically not a violation against that reviled Treaty.

'It is important to remind everyone that as much as we all – from soldiers to miners, from settler to citizens – detest this Treaty, the Lord Regent and SectCom has never advocated it's violation.' Interior Minister Gormov Scag, in charge of this project, reminded us. The minister was at Heztown, which is serving as the gateway, to oversee this project. 'There were human settlements in this reclamation zone before and after the War from Orbital data. The Kroot must have invaded into the zone shortly after the Treaty. But, of course, we are not going to stand for that!' Minister Scag went on to provide us the detailed plan to restore the territory to Danubis IV's colony as part of the "Ex-Claim" initiative. He also pointed out that while Golden Dawn is tied to the Lord Regent, its business arm bid for (cont. pg. 5)

*Beware the Mutant
Abhor the Witch*

From the Editor Balphys Rottenrag

The Regency is not the only institution celebrating 10th Anniversary. That's correct, righteous citizens, The New Truth of the Emperor is approaching our 10th Solar Standard in just two quartiles. We will mark the celebration with an anniversary edition looking back on our unrivaled reporting and our mission.

Combined Enforcers and Guild Security Force Neutralize Large Recidivist Enclave

Commander Elim Kran, official spokesperson for Sector Command gave a press briefing on the latest raid which took place in Sector Λ2, District 4 that saw the largest recidivist enclave to date neutralized. The brave Enforcers of precincts 9, 10, 13 and 22 as well as Guild Security from the Golden Dawn and Emerald Mining Concerns joined forces in this raid on an insidious collective of renegades, mutants, and heretics that were holed up in an abandoned warehouse complex. Their presence was revealed by the reclamation activities of the Lord Regent's new "Ex-Claim" initiative, the expansion and reclamation project.

The engagement lasted over three standard rotations that ultimately saw the entire enclave eradicated with minimal casualty among the security forces. The post-action investigation continues among the blasted remains of the abandoned warehouse, but as of last count fifty-seven of the miscreants were destroyed and forty-nine of these dangerous renegades are in custody and undergoing interrogation. Among the recovered items include illegal weapon caches, proscribed texts, and prohibited substances – official tally to follow.

This enclave is suspected to be linked to the patricidal traitor Ollin Cranx, who is still wanted for his part in murder of the late Governor and under thirty-two counts of heresy, twenty-seven counts of terrorism and three counts of fratricide, not to mention multitude of other convictions. Long thought to be dead, this dangerous enclave is the first sign this terrorist and heretic maybe still alive. (cont. pg. 2)

Legendary Sculptor Unveils New Sculpture of the Four-armed Emperor, Well Received

Ninievt de la Vega, legendary sculptor and artist unveils new statue of the Emperor. It is the interpretation of the Emperor as the Divine of Four-arms reaching out from across the stars to bring succor and protection to the citizens of Danubis IV.

Of course, 'Ninievt' is not the first artist to interpret the Divine Emperor in this form as a number of notable artists have already done so in recent years. However, she, as a signature of her avant-garde style, is the first to break from the mold of depicting the hands of the Emperor as holding the four tools of the mining trade. Instead, for her, the Emperor's arms are the tools with which the Emperor administer the Imperium - the Astra Militarum, the Adeptus Astartes, the Adeptus Titanicus, and the Imperial Navy. 'Heresy,' some might say? Well, we have yet to hear objections from the Inquisition. (Full interview Pg. 4)

City Says Farewell to Revered Son and Hero

Colonel Llawrel Gwylyr, highly decorated officer and Hero of the War, late of the 23rd Danubian Regiment was laid to rest with full military honors in Minehead City. The funeral procession and the entombment ceremony were attended by thousands of mourners, and despite the earlier fears, the event proceeded peaceably without incident. Perhaps the Minehead citizenry owes a thanks to Sector Command for the cautionary measures of additional security forces during the proceedings.

Col. Gwylyr died in a transport accident near the Heztown Wire (cont. pg. 6)
